at the Lake Washington Rowing Club

Always wanted to try rowing? Now's the time!

Rowing is a unique balance of technique, fitness and character and is fun to learn. Rowing classes at Lake Washington Rowing Club are designed for the complete beginner.

There are two ways to get started:

Experience Rowing Class

Get a crash course in rowing. You and your friends go from theory to water in three hours.

Learn to Row Classes

At LWRC new rowers start sculling (two oars per rower) in single boats, wherries, for greater flexibility and independence. Classes are offered morning, evening or weekends and meet twice a week for four weeks. Classes are small, and coaches give each rower the focused attention needed to get you out rowing on your own or in team boats.

Lake Washington Rowing Club, located in the heart of Fremont, is Seattle's only member-owned and operated rowing club. LWRC will help you get started on a new sport on and around Lake Union.
